6th January 2019 – Parker posted: ZelCore will have multiple address support in the next ZelCore update, about 1 week away (v1.3.0). This allows the same Zel ID login to have multiple addresses for activated assets. So if you want a wallet for daily use, one for mining rewards, and one for storage, you can, or name them anything you like. Please see this tweet, which has a short video of the multi address system in ZelCore

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=WAFHU2Shmus https://discord.io/zelcash 23:00 UTC: New ZelCash binaries, features: ZelNodes 1st Feb UTC 00:00 UTC: Community chat in Discord. And that's it! Although we won't have an irl event this year for the anniversary we hope to have our first this year, more details soon. We hope Jan 31st will give everyone in the community an opportunity to find their voice, chat, learn, suggest and improve together as we move into the second year of Zel. (A note from Miles) I want to end this first year mentioning those that make Zel, Zel. Not only the great team but also our community. Lumi, Tadeas (trunk), Parker and Daniel from the core team have been amazing and without them we would not have developed and grown Zel to the same degree nor would we be close to where we are now. The rest of the team, @Mods and @Developers have helped immeasurably to continue to develop Zel but also the beautiful community we have. Great contributors from the likes of Maxine who has helped with infrastructure, advice and MaxBot. Valter with Swing and the many others. It has been an amazing year. Hopefully 2019 will continue the same way, as we develop ZelNodes, ZelCore and more. Finally a massive thanks to @everyone in our community. We would not be the same without your support.
Thank you, Miles Manley

1st February 2019 – Parker announced: The source code for ZelCash and ZelNode supported binaries are now ready for download. They are raw binaries for Windows/Mac/Linux. Both the VPS/server and your control computer will use these files for communication. ZelCore Full Node with easy control wallet setup will be released this weekend as well as ZelCash Swing Wallet. This is beta testnet release. We have done a lot of testing, but there will be things that can break most likely. Use with caution, backup any wallet.dat files on your computer, don;t send real ZelCash to these addresses, etc. The blockchain will sync to a testnet folder within ZelCash folder. We have testnet Zel available and will set up a channel to request testnet Zel (TEL) to stand up a testnet ZelNode. There are no ZelNode rewards yet. That will come at activation on Feb. 21st. (see Discord for more info).

6th February 2019 – Please welcome Goose (Goose-tech) to the Zel Team. He will be providing marketing/media resources, helping create YouTube videos and other content to expand the number of eyes on ZelCash. The goal is to provide both content for incoming new community members and more technical content on project progression.

10th February 2019 – Parker announced: ZelCore is happy to announce that Monero ($XMR) is supported. Currently, Monero is available on Desktop with limited Mobile support in terms of sending. Sending from Mobile will be released next update cycle (receiving is currently enabled on Mobile). OpenAlias, Sweeping, and Payment IDs are also supported within ZelCore, providing the best Monero support for lightweight addresses in a multi-asset wallet. Send to alias addresses, sweep an entire address's value into a new one, and add your own payment notes.

13th March 2019 – Parker announced: We wanted to take a moment and thank you for the dedication you have had with the project. Without the community support we would not be where we are today. In the deepest of "Crypto Winter" we keep developing technology and keep the project moving forward. The project has been blessed to have such a solid Core, Team and community. To this point, we have been very successful with meeting all parts of the road-map, with that; we come to a fork in the road. To be transparent with the community, we have released a transparency report. Please take the time to read and understand what we are doing to advance this project forward, and keep developing the technology that will push ZelCash, ZelCore and the family of suites into a new dawn. Feedback is always appreciated and we will also go more in-depth at the next live meeting with the release of a new "road-map". It goes without saying, you are all the best community ever and thank you for your dedication to Zel! More details will be discussed in the upcoming live meeting this weekend https://medium.com/@ZelOfficial/zel-foundation-transparency-report-q1-2019-5146c40d766a https://twitter.com/Zelcash/status/1105879091327131648

6th April 2019 – Parker announced: We are pleased to officially announce something we have been working on for a while that unfortunately had to remain a secret until now. The Zel Team and ZelCore have been working with Binance to integrate their DEX and Chain into ZelCore natively, which makes ZelCore the only platform currently to have the DEX, chain, and their CEX orderbooks (via Premium launching this month) all in one place. Below is a link to the Medium announcement, which Binance plans to push with their social media outlets. We will update the community in more detail soon, our roadmap is relatively unaffected by this Binance integration. We also now have communication directly with Binance, and have applied for ZelCash to be listed there and working through the listing process directly with Binance, so cross your fingers https://medium.com/@ZelOfficial/zelcore-integrates-full-support-for-binance-dex-chain-cex-buidl-d60001bb22e2

7ᵗʰ May 2019 – Binance confirmed they have been hacked, though it seems the lost coin was from a single Binance-owned address. CZ has stated that " a large number of user API keys, 2FA codes, and potentially other info" has been lost. Binance users, and ZelCore+ users that have linked API keys of their Binance accounts should consider removing those API keys, and changing passwords/authentication as a pre-caution.

13th May 2019 – Daniel Keller announced: Today, quietly we passed 800 ZelNodes. It's hard to believe how fast this has grown!! Thank you to all the community for making this happen!!

15th May 2019 - As Cryptopia begins the bankruptcy/liquidation process, the topic of private key ownership should be brought up also. This is as good a time as any to remind crypto holders about how ZelCore gives users 100% custody over their assets, and that assets stored on exchange belong to the exchange, not the user. Please consider sending this Medium article around that discusses Cryptopia's shutdown and why PK ownership is important https://medium.com/@ZelOfficial/importance-of-private-key-ownership-cryptopia-case-study-92fd7396b6de

16th May 2019 – Daniel Keller announced: Zel has been added to Trust Wallet and is in Beta (thanks to @°☆ Valter/Cabecinha84 [UTC+1]) Please take some time to beta test this before they release. This is great exposure to other platforms for Zel and will not be the last wallet we are integrated into. Cross platform adoption is essential for the development of the currency model and we will continue to push the adoption level of Zel. Download the beta here, this will be in Test Flight: http://trustwallet.com/beta 19th May 2019 – Daniel Keller announced: I would like to welcome @Jason [UTC - 4] (Jason) to the Zel team! Jason will be joining us as a Senior Advisor & Head of ZelLabs, a new initiative we will be announcing very soon! Jason brings 10+ years of experience and expertise in the Operations, Finance and IT Management space and he is a huge advocate in the Blockchain and Cryptocurrency realm. He has been deeply involved in other communities and most recently was the Chief Operations Officer and led the tokenization of a Fintech company processing payments for small community U.S. banks and foreign financial institutions. Please welcome @Jason [UTC - 4] to the Zel family!

20th May 2019 – Parker announced: Zel's documentation is moving to a new home, away from Github Wiki. This new system at Gitbook should be easier to navigate, is broken down into projects, and will continually be updated as information becomes available. Currently populated with Zel, ZelCore/+, ZELmate, ZelNodes, and more. Will also be the repositories for Zel ID, ZelMed, ZelHash, and Zel0p in the future. Let us know what you think. https://zel.gitbook.io/

7th June 2019 – Parker posted: An explanation of why the update did not go out yesterday: We were made aware of possible legal items that must be addressed before integrating BitMEX because of our proxy services. We foresee being able to address these items and release a version of ZelCore+ with BitMEX integrated, though it might take a couple ZelCore updates before it can be released. ZelCore aims to follow the necessary rules in place so that ZelCore is not banned from using this and other exchange services. We will keep the community up to date on when BitMEX will be released in ZelCore+ in the coming updates. ZelCore v2.0.4 update is planned to release in the next few hours including support for XRP, updated Portfolio Tracker features for ZelCore+, and the ability for the user to choose which block explorers to use for their asset information

11th June 2019 – Daniel Keller: You asked, we listened! You want more Exchanges listings, marketing and other items? Please consider donating to continue the development of the Zel Project. Marketing Fund - The marketing fund will be used to fund videos, podcasts, raising awareness of the Zel ecosystem, etc. Exchange Listings - The Zel Development Fund does not pay for listing fees. If the community would like to fund paying for exchange listings we will need community donations. Development Fund - The Development Fund helps pay for Zel and ZelNodes development, future modules such as ZelPay, Zel ID, etc. Coffee & Beer Fund - The Zel Community Team is made up of volunteers giving their time to further the Zel Project. Donate them a beer. The donated funds will be accumulated as-needed into transparent addresses and summaries will be included in the Quarterly Transparency Reports. 29th June 2019 – Miles Manley posted: before we announce our new roadmap we're getting ready and making moves ahead of times. One part of this is getting together a new set of @ZelCore Tester's. If you'd like to be part of @ZelCore Tester program and be on the cutting edge of releases with new assets, features, ui changes, fixes and more we'd appreciate any and all help when it comes to testing. We'll have nightly builds and some days multiple builds... It depends on how development goes. If you are somewhat technical and have a good understanding of crypto wallets and exchanges, trading terminals, mobile payment application or any multitude of skills and experiences I haven't mentioned... Please reach out to me or Parker via dm to get you in the correct channels so when we start rolling out betas we're all ready to role with the testers handbook at our side. Before applying remember these are betas and can and will break. So do not use them on your main machine, unless you are confident in your funds being backed up, especially fullnode directories and do not use zelcore accounts with large funds in them... These are beta. Cheers

4ᵗʰ July 2019 – Miles Manley announced: We have a fix, the chain is moving and we are looking to make the release over the next couple of hours. Explorers are updated, ZelCore works. If you are a @Pool Operators - you can get moving again just build current master branch We will release the mandatory upgrade today and inform exchanges and all pools that we know of. ZelNode operators will also have to update - we are releasing binaries and info today. Big thanks to @equipool.1ds.us and our @Developers as well as @everyone in the community that joined us for this fun afternoon :) We will provide more info in the upcoming medium posts, FullNode ZelCore + ZelMate will need to updated as part of ZelNode operators updating. So in conclusion we have got the chain moving again after 5 hours and are rolling along now. Another mandatory upgrade will be required but things are moving again. ZelNode rewards are scheduled to be enforced on the 10th July but we will bring them forward once ZelNodes + Pools + Exchanges are updated. Medium post will be out soon providing a better summary. Kamiooka is alive and kicking and we move on, Thanks again @everyone

4ᵗʰ July 2019 – Miles Manley announced: So update, chain is moving well and we are almost complete with releases. We have released a new version of:
https://github.com/zelcash/zelcash-swing-wallet/releases/tag/v7.5.0 - ZelMate that is mandatory - this will fix your issues with being stuck at 372,523 ZelCore lite is currently working and we are releasing a hot fix for fullnode - so keep an eye out on v2.0.7 - we will make an ann for it. In regards to ZelNodes it is recommended to update them to the latest versioning we will release a medium article - but you can follow the previous one. But things are looking good and we feel we reacted well to this as a community. As mentioned - Medium will be released to summarise the last 16 hours or so. Cheers @everyone 4th July 2019 – Since we are all happy about the upgrade and the success of the project, we would like to offer this, if you donate 50$ to the Water Project, we will give you a year access to ZelCore+!!! DM me your donation info and I will make sure you get access. Let's go team Zel!!

1st August 2019 – Miles Manley posted: Hey @everyone, Today marks the first year release of the Core-Team distribution and establishment of the foundation yearly distribution. This means that: 750,000 Zel - release to founder (Miles) 200,000 Zel - release to the other 4 core team members (Tadeas, Lumi, Daniel and Parker) All members of the core team have agreed to continue to hold this lockup. - These funds were distributed one year ago - and will continue to remain locked, now in ZelNodes. This means that 3,100,000 Zel will remain locked up and off of the market - in ZelNodes - for at least another year. This was agreed between the core, earlier this week. I'm happy to share this in a show of transparency as we prepare to release the transparency report for the Foundation towards the end of August.
Hopefully this shows the whole community that the core team continues to remain dedicated as ever to the project. Things are starting to heat up as we move through the second half of 2019. With ZelNodes, ZelVPN, ZelCore v3 and more... We're looking forward to the continual sprint and the next few network upgrades we have in store for the rest of this year. Thank you all for your continued and ongoing support. Miles Manley Founder - Zel 8ᵗʰ September 2019 – September termed the 'Month of Flux' This month will be termed the "Month of Flux". Over the next 30 days we will be releasing Flux for testing, have a fire-side-chat and demo to the community and have a celebration with some give-aways and community events. Flux is over a year in the making, and ZelNodes will be able to showcase the power of decentralized computational network. I'm excited for the next 30 days and to share the vision and hard work from this team!

10th September 2019 – The ZelLabs team is please to announce ZelLabs Pools! This new structure will create a new paradigm on how we mine smaller community based projects. Micro-Pools will be developed (perhaps, within Flux) that will support smaller projects to help them grow by providing a stable and scalable environment. With this, the first pool to be supported is $ZEL! The new Labs pool offers an outstanding UI-UX, custom payments, and for larger miners (Top 30) free ZelCore+. Yes, you read that correctly, we will be providing free ZelCore+ to all top miners. Also of note, a portion of the fees will go directly to the Zel development! We are hopeful this will be embraced by the community, please take the time and spread the hash! Here is Zel- https://zel.zellabs.net/ and a couple of new micro-pools: https://arw.zellabs.net/, https://genx.zellabs.net/ Have fun, and please let us know your feedback! ALL POOLS ARE NOW LIVE!

12th September 2019 – Over the past several month the Community Pool has been a great success due to all the miners that have dedicated hash and time to making it great. The Zel Team has a high level of dedication to making sure we provide the mining community with the BEST UI-UX experience we can. As mining develops, so do the tools that make a pool essential to the success of a long-term project. Long gone are the days of just basic UI that offered little features and difficult to use. With that, we have agreed to begin to transition the current Community Pool over to the new ZelLabs Pool. This transition will take place Friday, September 13th @ 2:00 PM EST. This switch should be seamless and all miners will move over in the back side with little to no dropped hash. Here are a few new benefits to the move: 1. An all new UI-UX with custom payouts and new features 2. ZelCore+ for free to the top 30 miners and random giveaways every month to loyal miners 3. New features to comes such as Zelnode monitoring and more! 4. Fees will go to the Foundation and upkeep of the pool for new development of advanced features. We thank the Community Pool team, and look forward to the new adventure of Labs Pools full family of products. You can begin mining there today if you like: https://zel.zellabs.net/ Please DO NOT hesitate to ask questions!

22nd September 2019 – Parker announced: Apologies for late posting, its getting harder and harder to get all the timezones to line up. Fireside Chat Sunday Sept. 22 @ 11am EST This will be an informal chat/Q&A on Discord to talk about all things ZelFlux. Flux is still in development and changing all the time so this is a great change to both learn about the ZelNode operating system and give the team your 2 cents.

24th September 2019 - special A special shout out @SavageMine for a great video on ZelFlux! Please take the time to check this out and show him some love with a retweet and like!!!

26th September 2019 – Daniel Keller posted: As a reminder, the Zel Team, ZelCore, Zel Technologies GMBH, ZelLabs ect. does not, and will never support shared node services. If you are using a shared node service, you trust that the admins of said service will have in place security processes and procedures that will protect your assets. You also are trusting there education level with very high level functions. We, the Zel team can never validate those processes, therefore; RUN YOUR OWN NODES! Do not hold on exchange, and do not allow people to hold your private keys. There is no worse feeling that knowing you were told, and its too late. The Zel Team has been clear, third parties entrusted with your assets, may not end well. This is not a debate, this is a fact.

30th September 2019 – Parker announced: ZelCore Desktop & Mobile apps are updated and released (iOS pending App Store review) Changelog:

4th October 2019 – Daniel Keller announced: We are aware of the current issue with the iOS release loading times. If you allow it to keep loading (3 mins) it will open, we are thinking this has something to do with the new iOS 13 and working though an updated release. This does not effect Linux, Windows, Android only iOS. Thank you for your understanding! More information will be posted in the #maintenance-notices-⚒ as it become available. At best case, working with Apple, it might be a day or so. Sorry for the inconvenience.
